FORD WINS IN SCHOOL VOTE

P. R. MILNES

The opinions expressed in this column are the personal views of the writer and do not necessarily reflect those of the management; in fact, many times they do not.—Milnes.

TAKING GOSPEL TO THE PEOPLE

"Then he called his twelve disciples together and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases."

"And he sent them to preach the Kingdom of God and to heal the sick."

I believe there is another passage in the Scriptures in which Christ enjoins his desciples "to go forth into all the world and preach the Gospel."

The observance of that injunction was easier in the days of its utterance than today, when the Gospel is spread through the churches as its main instrumentality. Our civilization now is more complex and the known world is larger, yet thru missionary work in foreign lands the church is fulfilling the mission of carrying the Kingdom of God to all peoples and all lands; but in a more restricted sense than outlined in the Bibical injunction last quoted.

Yet there are still people in the world who take their Bible literally, among them being a modern traveling friar, the only one in the Episcopal church of America, the Rev. Welles M. Partridge, who is spreading the gospel along the high ways and the back roads of this country.

The minister gave up his parish work near Boston and set forth in an old auto with his terrier, Spot. He has traveled 30,000 miles in 48 states preaching and ministering to hobo camp and cathedral without financial assistance.

The world is full of kindness the minister has found. "What is more significant," he says, "people are hungry for God, especially the humbler folk and the poor, irrespective of race, condition or religious affiliations."

"I have camped with them all along the roadside. Half the people in this country don't go to church. Either they are isolated and can't get there or are tired of religious flapdoodle."

Born in Brooklyn and educated in New England, the Rev. Partridge was a missionary in the Alaskan gold rush under the famed Bishop Rowe. In the World War he was a navy chaplain and gave to the government his invention, a hydro-kite that could elevate observers at sea

MRS. M'CANN BEATEN BY INCUMBENT

Twenty-one hundred and sixty-five voters went to the polls yesterday in the Richmond school district, and by their votes re-elected J. O. Ford as trustee by a vote of 1463, as against 670, received by Mrs. Frances McCann, a write-in candidate.

CARRIES EVERY PRECINCT

There were thirteen consolidated precincts in the district, and Ford carried every one of them by large majorities, with the exception of precinct 11 (Fairmont) where the vote was close.

Although there was a great deal of interest taken in the contest, there were not as many votes polled as at the last school election, when 2,374 ballots were cast.

An inspection of the ballots at the different precincts as they were being counted was very interesting, as all manner of voting was in evidence.

PECULIAR MARKINGS

In some of the precincts, a cross was stamped in the space for the write-in candidate, instead of immediately after the printed name. In others, the name of Mrs. Frances McCann was written in the space immediately above that of Ford.

Some precinct officers counted both of these type of ballots, while

KARPIS LOSES BRAVADO IN JAIL CELL

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 2.—UP—Robbed of his bravado and trembling like a man with palsy, Alvin Karpis sat in an "escape-proof" jail cell tonight waiting for the law to punish him for crimes which earned him the unofficial title "Public Enemy No. 1."

"This was the man who said he would never be taken alive," mocked J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who personally made the arrest at New Orleans Friday night.

NO RESISTANCE

"He offered no resistance whatsoever," Hoover said. "He was so nervous he could scarcely talk. His hands were shaking like a leaf and his knees shook as if he had the palsy."

Karpis was a cringing, beaten man all during the 16 hours' airplane trip with ten G-men in a chartered airliner from New Orleans. His hands rattled the chains that bound him, as he stepped about as ordered.

Break The Shackles

Voters should rise in their might Tuesday, and refuse to accept the dictation of Governor Merriam, and his back seat driver, Hearst, a New York Democrat.

The combination, an unholy one, is doing everything possible to grab the Republican party of California.

Just what Merriam is politically, no one can tell. He is wafted back and forth as the wind blows, but always with his weather eye open, for any advantage that he may take of existing conditions.

Only a short time ago, from public statements he made, everyone concluded he was for Roosevelt; at another time he was for the Townsend contingent; at another time he was a presidential candidate, and then to the amazement of all he hooked up with Hearst, in an apparent attempt to sell out the Republican party.

The Hearst-Merriam ticket, headed by Joe Crail, represents the bosses, the public utilities, the greedy corporations, and nothing that the common people stand for.

Let us go to the polls, Tuesday, May 5th and vote to keep our freedom.

Vote to defeat the Hearst-Merriam ticket, by voting for the Warren ticket, made up of progressives.

FOREIGNERS IN DANGER OF ATTACK

LONDON, May 2. — UP— Emperor Haile Selassie fled from his capital today, abandoning it to its fate and leaving several hundred Europeans there at the mercy of fierce bands of plundering Ethiopian warriors.

Firing and looting broke out.

TROOPS ON GUARD

Americans and other foreigners took refuge behind the barbed-wire fortifications of the British legation, defended by 250 six-foot fighting Sikh troops from India, imported for this very emergency months ago, by Sir Sidney Barton, British minister.

The Addis Ababa radio station went dead, and the only authentic news received here came in a communication from Sir. Sidney to the British government over his own wireless set, reciting the above facts.

SOLDIERS GO AMOK

Sir Sidney wirelessed to the Foreign Office tonight that the Ethiopians numbering several thousand troops who have fallen back on the capital from the fighting front, had evidently gone amok and that shooting, plundering and burning

Appendix Found On Wrong Side; Young Hoey Dies

MARTINEZ, May 2—One of the most unusual cases on record in medical history ended tonight in the death of Bernard Hoey, son of former District Attorney and Mrs. James F. Hoey.

When the youth was taken to the Cowell Memorial hospital at the University of California, it was revealed that his appendix was on the left side instead of the right. The appendix had burst and peritonitis developed, resulting in his death.

The young man had been ill for two weeks and repeated investigations failed to reveal the cause. Yesterday when his condition became serious, three specialists decided upon an immediate operation, believing bowel obstruction was the cause. They were surprised to find that his appendix was on the extreme left side of his body and had burst.

Ford Pleased With Result Of School Election

"The endorsement of my work in behalf of the schools of the district over a period of many years, which was given me by the voters of the district at the election, by which I was returned to office is indeed most pleasing, and I appreciate the expression of confidence," said J. O. Ford last evening after the votes were counted.

"In the future, I promise that the sole purpose I will have in view, as in the past, will be the welfare of the children of the district.

"I wish to take this opportunity to express my thanks to the large number of friends who made the campaign for me. My re-election as a trustee of the grammar school district, is the result of the voluntary work they did in my behalf."

British Ship Is Destroyed In Fog Crash

NEW YORK, May 3 (Sunday)—UP—The British steamer City of Auckland was sinking this morning off the Massachusetts coast after a collision in fog with the S. S. Canadian Planter, the Coast Guard radio station here reported at 1:10 A. M.

The crew was removed safely to the City of Auckland, which remained anchored at the scene to investigate possible damage to itself.

Neither Radio Marine Corporation, which first picked up messages reporting the accident nor the Coast Guard radio station in New York was able to learn what crew, or how many passengers, either ship carried.

The City of Auckland, an 8336-ton vessel sailed from Liverpool.

Barber Held In "Snake Death" Quiz

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—UP—Robert S. James, amorous barber, watched without a quiver tonight while Charles Hope, former sailor, re-enacted his almost incredible tale that James tied his wife to a table and forced one of her bare legs into a box of rattlesnakes to be bitten by the deadly fangs.

Hope went over his story at the suburban La Crescenta home where Mary James, bride of three months and an expectant mother, was found dead, face-down in a lily pond last August.

He said James told him he finally drowned the woman because the snake poison was acting too slow.

James, taken from jail by special court order to make the trip, was laughing and almost jovial. He awaits trial on morals charges involving his 21-year old niece.

"Hope is screwy," James insisted. He was ordered by District Attorney Buron Fitts to make no statement whatsoever during the tour of the kitchen where Hope said the snake-biting occurred, and the pond where he said he and James placed the wife's body in six inches of water.

Last Rites Are Conducted Here For I. C. Hastin

Last rites for the late Ivan C. Hastin, 34, of 1826 Pennsylvania avenue, were held yesterday morning from the Wilson and Kratzer chapel with Rev. J. I. Rhoades officiating.

Cremation was at Berkeley. Pallbearers were J. U. Craig, H. Wilkerson, Eugene Snyder, James Hastin, Kenneth Hastin and George Clark.

Otten Pleads Not Guilty In Justice Court

Appearing before Justice of the Peace J. E. Christensen in San Pablo yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, Charles Otten, local pool hall employee, entered a plea of not guilty to charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit bodily harm.

Date for trial will be set by Judge Christensen some time this week.

Otten was represented at the hearing by Attorney Robert Collins of Carlson & Collins while Deputy District Attorney Homer Patterson appeared for the People.

Otten was arrested last week after he allegedly threatened the life of Harry McAndrews of San Pablo. A charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder was filed against Otten later by Mrs. Ruth Kersey, also of San Pablo. However, the warrant on this charge has not been served against Otten.

The defendant is being held in the county jail at Martinez in lieu of $5000 bail.

Capital March By Townsenders Now Proposed

LOS ANGELES, May 2. — The Townsend "National Legion" division developed plans today for an old age pension march to Washington.

A call for volunteers was issued by Walter Warmbold, division manager, to carry petitions and solicit signatures en route.

Warmbold said Townsend clubs in each State across the country would furnish a motorcade of ten machines to relay the petitions. The California contingent, for example, would stop at the Arizona border.

On another, Townsend front in Los Angeles, Luther A. Heilig, detective agency operator, headed a "fact-finding committee" which he organized "to stop any racketeering" by old age pension leaders.

Democrats Of Arizona Stage Convention Row

TUCSON, Arizona, May 2—UP—After a fist fight and a lot of angry shouting Arizona's fighting Democrats ended their convention tonight in such a tight knot of disagreement it may take the national committee to untie it.

William Matthews, Tucson publisher, was knowcked down on the convention floor by Mayor Andrew Bettwey of Nogales, who disagreed with the speech Matthews was making against the New Deal.

Legality of most of the convention's work was placed in question by a wrangle over whether to instruct the state delegation to the national convention to cast its six votes for President Roosevelt.

Chairman W. P. Stuart, Prescott publisher, described by political opponent as a luke-warm New Deal supporter, caused a viva voice vote and ruled the convention adjourned.

Graf Zeppelin Is Damaged In Accident In S.A.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 2.—UP—The German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, prepared to begin its homeward journey to Frankfort tonight despite a slight accident when the huge airship arrived at Santa Cruz airport last night.

The Condora Syndicate, agents for the Zepplin company in South America, announced the airship scraped the mooring cable at the airport, tearing a 3 1-2 yard hole in the fabric. The accident was not serious, however, the agent said and the Graf was expected to leave on schedule for Recife.

The torn fabric has been fully repaired, they said.

Desert Heat Hits Marlene In Film Scene

YUMA, Ariz., May 2—UP— Marlene Dietrich, star of the Selzwick International "Garden of Allah" movie being filmed in the desert near here, collapsed today, presumably from the blistering desert heat causing temporary suspension of work.

According to information from the movie company, Miss Dietrich had been up late last night studying her lines and was called on the set early this morning to take advantage of the light.

While the cameras were recording one of the most dramatic scenes in the play, the actress suddenly crumpled and sank into the sand.

Basil Rathbone, actor, and Richard Boleslawsk, director, placed her in an automobile and rushed her to the nearest shade, several miles away. Her condition was not believed to be serious.

A temperature of 138 degree was recorded at the film location.

WPA Is Scored As Wasteful By GOP Keynoter

NEW YORK, May 2.—UP—Senator Frederick Steiwer, R. Oregon, newly chosen Republican convention keynoter tonight assailed New Deal recovery and relief policies and called for return of relief administration to State and local agencies.

He proposed liquidation of the WPA which he characterized as wasteful and subject to serious political abuses in an address at a meeting called by the Queens Republican Committee.

He promised a fight on the pending $1,500,000,000 relief appropriation to achieve the Republican objective.

"The Republican party," he said, "does not propose to repudiate the obligation to feed the hungry but we do propose, so far as it lies in our power to take politics out of relief."

Lori Blitz Is Surprise Winner, To Upset Dope

Shy Cut, by Horatius-Hayward Crick, won the seven-sixteenths mile race Saturday night at El Cerrito Kennel Club track.

Shy Cut beat out Connemara Hill and Just Blue.

At 4 to 1 choice, Shy Cut rewarded the backers in the unusually large crowd to the tune of $20.60 prefered.

With Lori Blitz, a No. 1 dog running as she has never done before this meeting, Shy Cut cut off a double option that paid $222.00.

This is no fay.

The surprising part is that Shy Cut repeated a previous victory.

Split Fire assumed the unusual position of "a four-time straight winner by taking the Golden State Handicap over Shawnee Belle and Another Aristocrat, Saturday.

Split Fire was fortunate to last out because Shawnee Belle had all kinds of trouble.

Time on the race bettered the best at the meeting. It was 29 seconds—phenomenal under the circumstances.

Shawnee Belle ran a whale of a race and was closing like a rocket, despite interference.

Quinielas hit high averages Saturday. For instance here are some of them—$106 in third race, $103.20 in fourth race, $11.10 in fifth race, $100.80 in sixth race, $158.40 in seventh race. The quiniela options are hitting a high average in the spring meeting, which closes May 16.

U. S. Deficit Financing Is Hit By Savant

WASHINGTON, May 2.—UP—The Administration's "policy of deficit financing is unsound and fraught with great danger," Prof. Fred R. Fairchild of Yale University told the Senate Finance Committee today.

Testifying before the committee as it considered the Administration's $803,000,000 tax bill, Fairchild said it is useless to consider tax increases until the New Deal decides to try to balance the Federal budget.

Senator Tom Connally, D., Tex., interrupted to ask how the budget—now facing a $5,966,600.00 deficit—could be balanced without new taxes.

"By economies," replied Fairchild. He said he could not give specific suggestions.

Congressman In Toils Of Law Given Freedom

SHALLOTTE, N. C., May 2—UP—Representative Marion Zioncheck interrupted his hectic honeymoon for two hours today to explain to a sheriff that he had settled satisfactorily the speeding charge against him at Alexandria, Va.

The Democratic congressman from the State of Washington and his bride, a former Washington, D. C., stenographer, had to place a half dozen telephone calls to Alexandria and Washington before Sheriff J. A. Russ was convinced that it was all right to let the honeymooners proceed southward in their automobile.

The record of the "bad boy" of Congress followed him here and the wife of the sheriff recognized him as he and his bride stopped at the village store for refreshments. The sheriff took after the congressman, and said Zioncheck was traveling better than 50 miles an hour when he beckoned him to stop.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Ky., May 2—UP—Bold Venture today won the 62nd running of the Kentucky Derby before 75,000 spectators, largest crowd ever to see a horse race in this country.

Brevity, Joseph E. Widener's favorite, was second, Indian Broom, Major Austen C. Taylor's Western speedster, was third.

Bold Venture, owned by M. L. Schwartz, won by a head over Brevity.

Cold Stream was fourth and Bien Joli, Col. E. R. Bradley's lone entrant, finished fifth.

Bold Venture took the lead at the three-quarter mile post and held it right down to the finish line.

Brevity pulled up into second place in the stretch and held that place down to the wire.

Ira Hanford piloted Bold Venture over the mile and a quarter track in the good time of two minutes, 3 and 3-5 seconds.

Brevity hammered home in front of Indian Broom by six lengths, picking up four lengths from the start of the stretch to the wire.

Olympic Club Is Beaten By U.S.C.

LOS ANGELES, May 2—UP—University of Southern California's great track team defeated the San Francisco Olympic Club aggregation of world record holders and former intercollegiate champions by an overwhelming score of 83 to 47 today.

The margin by which the Trojans disposed of the team rated as their strongest dual meet competition, was as great as that which Dean Cromwell's performers disposed of Stanford and University of California this season.

others threw them out. There was much discussion about the legality of the ballots by proponents of both sides.

In nearly every precinct in the district, the county clerk had drawn a red line through names, which meant that although the parties had registered, they had not done so, the required number of days before the election. These elimiuations in some instances caused bitter discussions, and election officers were blamed, although they were entirely innocent.

Two prominent physicians lost their votes for this same reason, but they took the matter good naturedly, frankly admitting the election officers were right.

BALLOTS THROWN OUT

In precinct 5, (Lincoln school) 17 ballots were thrown out, and in precinct 9, (Bell's Garage) 14 were not counted. The election officers held they were not legal ballots, for one reason or another. A small number of ballots was also thrown out in some of the other precincts.

The precinct by precinct vote can be seen in another column of today's paper.

was going on.

The natives were inflamed by hatred of all whites because of their humiliation at the hands of the Italians. Plundering the shops, they filled themselves with cheap wine and spirits and raged thru the streets, firing indiscriminately.

ITALIANS MOVE AHEAD

The latest information here was that the victorious Italian armies, moving relentlessly but slowly ahead over roads made almost impassable by heavy rains, were within about 30 miles of Addis Ababa and expected to occupy it tomorrow.

The war was considered here to be virtually over and the Italian conquest complete, with the League of Nations facing an accomplished fact which it could not possibly overcome except by the unthought-of step of military action against Italy.

No further organized resistance by Ethiopia was expected, although it was believed here that scattered guerilla skirmishes by the unreconciled tribesmen might go on south of the capital for months or even years.

ONE SLAIN IN S. F. DRUNKEN PARTY, BRAWL

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2—UP—A shotgun blast today ended a paint contracing partnership which the survivor, Warren Sloat, 42, told police, 26-year-old Homer Henderson was attempting to extend to include sharing Sloat's wife.

Mrs. Sloat corroborated her husband's story that Sloat killed Henderson because the younger partner was trying to force his attentions on her.

The shooting broke up a drinking party in the Sloat home. During the party the supply of beverages was exhausted and Sloat went out to get some more wine.

On his return, he said, he discovered Henderson struggling with Mrs. Sloat. The younger man told his partner "to get out, your wife doesn't love you."

Sloat went out as far as a closet and obtained a shotgun. He said Henderson "came for me." The painter fired and the youth dropped with two charges of buckshot in his head. He died before medical aid reached him.

Police booked Sloat on murder charges and held his wife as a material witness.

air tight" case making Karpis to the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer. Karpis and his late pal, Arthur "Doc" Barker—victim of G-men guns—also are alleged to have kidnaped Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul.

Hoover revealed before returning to New York that Karpis had attempted to conceal his identity like the late John Dillinger by plastic surgery. A crude operation was performed on his long-jawed pasty features by a former member of the Barker-Karpis gang, Dr. Joseph Moran, now believed dead.

HOOVER ELATED

The lobes of Karpis' ears had been cut and there was a deep scar under his left ear. His finger tips had been mutilated.

Hoover's tone as he announced details of the public enemy's capture was one of elation. Karpis once wrote to Hoover threatening to kill him so the G-man chief made a personal flight to New Orleans to be in at the finish when he heard Karpis was there a few days ago.

HOEPPEL ASKS TRIAL ON 2ND INDICTMENT

WASHINGTON, May 2.—UP—Rep. John H. Hoeppel, D., Calif., convicted with his son last December on charges of conspiring to sell a West Point appointment, today demanded that District Attorney Leslie C. Garnett order an immediate trial on a second indictment charging the substantive offense of solicitation.

Hoeppel and his son were convicted on the first indictment and sentenced to serve four months to one year each in prison. They appealed to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, where the case was argued last month. No ruling has been made by the appeals court.

In a letter to Garnett today, Hoeppel said:

"An indictment was returned against me by the Grand Jury in District Court here some time in March, 1935. The indictment charges the solicitation of $1000 and acceptance of a note for $1000 for the use of influence in obtaining an appointment to West Point for one, James W. Ives (college athlete).

"You will recall that I entered a plea of not guilty to this indictment and have constantly maintained my innocence of any wrong doing in relation to the charges preferred, and have at all times maintained that I had no knowledge of the matters charged in the indictment.

Change In State Assessments Is Urged By Chief

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2—UP—Recommendation that tax assessments on property be based on the actual productive value of the property was made before the Assembly interim committee on taxation today by W. M. Pittman, assessor of Santa Clara county.

Pittman said this method was being followed in Santa Clara county and had proven successful. "To make the proper appraisal of properties to be taxed, assessors thruout the state need reliable appraisers," he said, "and must map out and keep on file all properties to be taxed."

Pittman recommended that qualified experts be installed in appraisers' offices for longer periods than at present.

Fred Keyserling, member of Gov. Frank F. Merriam's committee of 25 offered the full support of the committee to the legislators.

SHANNON IS SUSPENDED IN GRAFT PROBE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Police Sergeant Patrick Shannon, who told the Grand Jury he won $25,000 on horse race betting with the help of a tipster named "Monk", was suspended today by Police Chief William J. Quinn.

Quinn's action followed a conference with Theodore Roche, president of the Police Commission. Roche said the Commission will investigate Shannon's self-asserted luck at the race track.

Shannon was suspended pending the completion of the Commission's inquiry, Chief Quinn said.

The action, a surprise development late this afternoon, was the first entry of the Police Commission into the probe of possible police graft in which the Grand Jury has questioned Shannon and Police Captain Thomas Hoertkorn.

It came shortly after Shannon had announced he was searching for "Monk" whose last name he has been unable to recall.

Horse racing followers, meanwhile, said that a tipster named Monk Trainer formerly visited at Bay Region tracks. Trainer is believed to have died a year ago in Syracuse, N. Y. Shannon declined to say whether the "Monk" who he said won the money for him might have been Monk Trainer.

Shannon started his search for "Monk" with the assertion "I think I can find him and recognize him."

"I'm going to need that man's aid after the Grand Jury gets through with me," Shannon concluded.

40 TO 50

Too many people expect to find the years between forty and fifty unpleasant. Women especially expect poor health and discomfort at this time. Yet, it is very true that those women who have refused to accept poor health and who have made an effort to improve their general health during these years find that they are able to feel themselves strong and attractive in every way. Both husbands and wives are afraid that their married life will not be as happy at this time as before. Yet such fears are needless.

It is entirely natural that certain changes occur in the functioning of the body between these years but there should be no particular physical or mental discomfort. "Hot flashes" probably cause the most discomfort of any one symptom. Such flashes usually pass off quickly and in most patients completely disappear with time. However, with the proper mental attitude and a wholesome diet and exercise it is entirely possible to avoid hot flashes as well as the other common symptoms which are: Rapid heart, spots in front of the eyes, faintness, lack of breath, depression and dizziness. Nervousness, excessive sweating and headache may be noted. Men also go through somewhat similar changes at a later time associated with a loss of vigor and mental depression. All of these unpleasant symptoms could be eliminated if certain dietetic rules are followed.

If you are approaching these years, make up your mind to make a real CHANGE FOR THE BETTER. Change your wrong eating habits into good ones. Be sure to use a well balanced diet such as the one given in this column every Friday. Reduce the starches and stimulants to the minimum and use plenty of raw salads.

The greatest change should be in your mental attitude. There is no reason for either man or woman to expect poor health. There is no reason why the body cannot continue to feel as well as ever during this time. With care there need be no disturbing change either mental or physical, and no loss of attractiveness. Probably the most serious change is this mental attitude of many women who are inclined to consider themselves thereafter old and useless.

This wrong mental attitude undoubtedly ages the woman and makes her content to act as though her life were practically over, when in reality the RICHEST PART OF IT HAS JUST BEGUN. The best mental attitude is to expect good health, energy and many happy years.

For those who will take up an interest in life, who will eat right, sleep enough, and exercise, the so-called "Dangerous Age" will be found to be deeper, richer and more constructive than earlier years and the only real change will be a change for the better.

Those who wish further information are welcome to send for my special article dealing with "the change of life." Write to me in care of this newspaper, enclose one large, self-addressed envelope and ten cents and the article will be forwarded to you as soon as possible.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Loss of Sense of Smell)

Question: From "Constant Reader": "Have you ever seen any cases where the sense of smell was recovered after it was once lost?"

(Celery Soup)

Question: Miss Belle S. asks: "Will you please give me a recipe for making celery soup."

Answer: Cut up the stalks from a bunch of celery and place on the fire with 3 cupfuls of water. Keep the fire low and simmer until celery is tender. Cook for an hour still keeping out the celery flavor. Strain off the liquid, mashing as much as desired of the cooked celery through the colander. If liquid does not equal 3 cupfuls, add hot water. Next add 1 tablespoonful of chopped parsley and 3 cupfuls of whole milk. Return to the stove and heat until quite hot but not boiling. When ready to serve, add a generous sprinkling of chopped parsley and a dash of whipped cream to each serving. Thin strips of Melba toast may be served with this soup if desired.

(Alopecia Areata)

Question: Mr. Ronald D. Heather: "What is alopecia areata?"

Answer: Alopecia areata refers to a particular type of baldness in which the hair falls out in patches. These bald areas occur in sharply defined patches.

LAUREL, HARDY CO-STARRED IN FILM AT FOX

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy in "Bohemian Girl" and "Love On A Bet" with Gene Raymond and Wendy Barrie are the two big laugh specials opening at the Fox theater today.

In "Love on a Bet" a meat packer's nephew gets the idea that he wants to become a Broadway producer. To raise finances he bets his uncle he can leave New York in his B. V. D.'s, arriving in Los Angeles 10 days later with a good suit of clothes, a hundred dollars in his pocket, and engaged to be married.

Some of the recent Laurel and Hardy comedies have been good, others have been exceptionally good. One of their funniest and most ambitious to date is "The Bohemian Girl," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production based on the famous operetta by William Balfe.

Costumes, the Balfe songs, and buffoonery such as only Laurel and Hardy can dish up, are the parts of this film. All the ballads of the original operetta including "Then You'll Remember Me," "I Dream't I Dwelt in Marble Halls" and "The Heart Bow'd Down," have been retained.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, May 2—UP—Latest lists of stars issued by the film studios show that the path to stardom is broadening.

In the silent days, the number of stars per studio averaged nine; when the talkies were young seven; today, it is 14.

Each studio has a variety of stars; one that will fit naturally nearly every role. The old days of the "beautiful but dumb" star is past, they say. A comparison of "then" and "now" is provided by the list of one studio.

It formerly had on the permanent list only Colleen Moore, Billie Dove, Al Jolson, Milton Sills, Monte Blue and Alice White, Marilyn Miller, Milton Sills, Monte Blue and Alice White, Marilyn Miller was borrowed occasionally.

Today the list includes Marion Davies, Paul Muni Kay Francis, Leslie Howard, Joe E. Brown, Al Jolson, Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Pat O'Brien, Edward G. Robinson James Cagney, Joan Blondell, Bette Davis, Guy Kilbee, Jean Muir, Warren William, Claude Rains and Boris Karloff.

Popularity of stars has grown proportionately despite their larger number, studios say.

Latest box-office compilations show modern stars have 10 to 20 per cent greater following than those in the days of Rudolph Valentino.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON, May 2—The directors of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce pulled a fast one last week on "Uncle Dan" Roper.

The Secretary of Commerce, after some energetic wire pulling, finally wrangled an invitation to address the convention despite the original plan of the directors not to invite a New Deal spokesman.

Roper devoted much time and labor to his speech. As finally drafted, his big feature was a ten-point program by means of which business men could aid in solving the unemployment problem. The formula was to be Roper's answer to the Chamber's challenge that the Administration tell industry how it could re-employ more men.

No. 1 plank in Roper's program was a proposal that business men themselves make a thorough survey of industry for the purpose of exploring the possibilities of adding men to payrolls. Such a study, Roper's manuscript declared, would be a great deal more valuable than a mere "head count" of the unemployed by the government as demanded by business.

Roper planned to spring this proposal as a surprise. But he made one serious slip.

Several days before he was to make his speech, he sent an advance copy to the Chamber bigwigs. When they spotted his proposal they got excited. They did not relish being put in the spot where they would either have to follow his advice or be charged with turning down a reasonable suggestion for the solution of the unemployment problem.

To get out of this dilemma, the Chamber master minds decided to jump the gun on "Uncle Dan." The night before he made his speech, the directors, with a great fanfare of ballyhoo, announced that the Chamber would launch a nationwide survey of re-employment. This was precisely the proposal Roper planned for the next day.

NOTE—Although privately deeply chagrined by this maneuver, Roper took the thumping in silence. He struck to the original text of his speech and put forth his proposal just as if the Chamber never had heard of it before.

WIFE-TO-WIFE

The dignity surrounding a Senate seat does not prevent Mrs. Huey Long from sending wifely advice to the women of Louisiana.

Recently she received a complaint from a Negro woman, Mrs. Jennie Mauneal of New Orleands, stating that her husband was receiving only half pay on a WPA project.

Mrs. Long investigated, found that Mauneal was receiving his pay in full. Then her wifely instincts came into play.

She wrote a letter to Jennie, saying: "The records show that from November 21, 1935, until March 27, 1936, your husband received ten checks, each for the full amount to which he was entitled.

"What you had better do is check up and see how your husband is spending the money he does get from the Government."

UNITED OPPOSITION

The night before the final reading of the tax bill in the House, the Republicans held a secret caucus. Afterwards Republican Floor Leader Bertrand Snell told newspapermen:

"Boys, we decided on a united opposition against this iniquitous bill. There will be plenty of fireworks tomorrow."

But when the last reading of the tax measure began next day, there were only ten Republicans in their seats. The fighting "united opposition" promised by the militant Mr. Snell simmered down to the meaningless gesture of a motion to recommit the bill to committee. Even on this no attempt was made to stage a battle.

Real lowdown on the Republican caucus was this:

Little time was devoted to the tax bill. Most of it was spent listening to Representatives John Taber and Robert L. Bacon of New York repeat what Harry Hopkins had told the Appropriations Committee in confidence about relief expenditures and administration.

NEW JERSEY RELIEF

What is worrying New Deal executives about the relief strike in New Jersey is the possibility that it may spread to other parts of the U. S. A.

The examples of relief workers putting their feet on the desks of legislators is disconcerting even to Senators and Congressmen who believe in the legislative system of the United States.

Some of them were here not so very long ago when the bonus army occupied the mud-flats along the banks of the Potomac and required General Douglas MacArthur, then Chief of Staff, to lift the drawbridges across the river to prevent an invasion of the District of Columbia.

Senator Harry Moore, twice Governor of New Jersey, claims that Governor Hoffman of New Jersey is dodging the issue.

"He could have cleared out the legislative chamber in no time with out using any force," says the ex-Governor. "Governor Hoffman could have offered them the armory next door, where there are beds and blankets and a place to cook.

"But instead he has let them desecrate the halls of the legislature, has made the people of New Jersey ashamed of their state—one of the original thirteen colonies.

"It's dangerous business," concluded ex-Governor Harry Moore.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, May 2—The Titterton murder case has put Manhattan's housewives into a mild state of the jitters.

Ever since the Beekman Place writer was strangled in her apartment on Good Friday morning, delivery boys, meter readers and salesmen have found it pretty difficult to gain entrance without first establishing iron-clad proof of their identity. Hardware stores report a marked increase in the sale of safety door chains, and shiny new locks are plentifully visible in the walk-up type of apartment houses.

Gas and electric company representatives find in many cases that women will not even answer the door until their husbands return from work in the evening. In other instances, housewives immediately call the company office if the men appear on other than regular days.

In the general vicinity of the Beekman Place murder scene, fear bordering on hysteria has not yet subsided. One newspaper man was almost arrested for ringing a doorbell in the murder block a day or wo following the crime. Even grocery boys sometimes have to leave their bundles outside locked doors.

The "scare" is citywide, and will probably last for some months. Traveling salesmen keep out.

STRENUOUS—How hard do actors work? Graduates of dramatic schools are usually warned that the stage is a harsh and wearing taskmaster, but you'd never believe it to look at some of the actors in the Theater Guild's current "Call It a Day."

Viola Roache, for example, remains on the stage just seven minutes, appearing for the first time at 9:40. Lawrence Gossmith has to labor only eight minutes beginning at 9:50. Esther Mitchell calls it a day's work after exactly thirteen minutes of playing, and Glenn Anders can mop his perspiring brow after a fifteen minute stretch in all.

The really tough assignment is that of Claudia Morgan. She appears for only eight minutes, bnt then has to dash over to another theater and act an entirely different role.

It's a terrible imposition, but Miss Morgan gets double pay to compensate for her exhaustion.

HOPEFUL—The funniest comedies are not all played in the Midway's regular theaters. Down at Municipal court the other day, testimony was being taken during the trial of an accident case.

The plaintiff was a stout Negro lady who had been hit by a taxi. After the accident, she had been carried into the John David store at Sixth Avenue and 32nd street, where an ambulance doctor had administered emergency treatment.

The Negress was on the stand for cross-examination, and the defense lawyer asked in the usual routine:

"And what happened after you were hit by the taxi?"

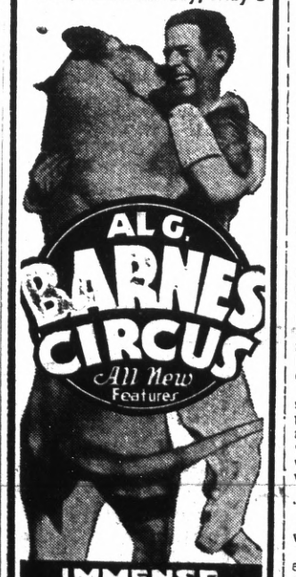

"Well, suh," began the plaintiff confidently, "first dey done took me into J. D. Rockefeller's house!"

"I took up this work," said the friar, "first for the honor of Christ, secondly in memory of my oldest brother, the late Right Rev. "In Old Kentucky" At Richmond Today

The picture that marks the glorious climax of Will Rogers' career, "In Old Kentucky" opened at the Richmond theater today to bring America's beloved star to the screen in a thrilling picturization of America's favorite play.

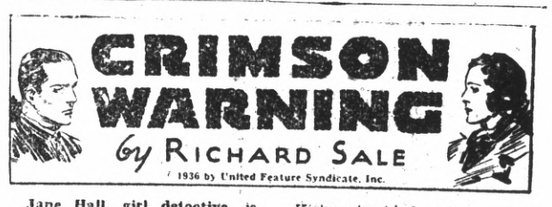

Skillfully modernized by the scenarists "In Old Kentucky" is mellow with the humor that brought Will Rogers fame, filled with the romance and the excitement of racing thoroughbreds that made this story the favorite of millions of Americans.

Rogers has the role of Steve Tapley, a trainer of champions and the skillful guide of young love in a land where all the horses are fast and the women beautiful.

CRIMSON WARNING

1936 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Jane Hall, girl detective, is summoned to the home of Emery Harding on Skeleton Island, off the coast of Maine, to guard his daughter Audrey, whose life has been threatened in a letter, typewritten in red, demanding that Harding relinquish a valuable ruby he bought from an old sea captain, Albert Santrey. He also sends for his friend, Bruce Kirby, young museum curator. Shortly afterward, Santrey is murdered on the beach—then Drumm, one of the servants. The house is full of guests any one of whom might have committed the murders. When Harding takes Jane and Kirby up to his room to see the ruby they surprise an intruder who escapes in the dark. They find another threatening letter also a cuff link marked "C." They go to Robert Castian's room and examine his typewriter. It is the machine, says Kirby, that wrote the threatening letters.

CHAPTER XIV

"THE letter 'a' is adventurous," said Kirby. "That's the identifying clue. See here, how it roves out of place."

Harding shook his head. "That's pretty conclusive," he said thoughtfully. "I—I can't conceive of Castian doing this, but it points to him. It points to him undeniably!"

"But so obviously," said Kirby, "that I fail to feel satisfied with this solution. I mean, a man who is bent on extortion and murder isn't usually such an ass as to write threatening notes on his own machine!"

"Don't go making things complicated," said Jane. "The evidence is pretty conclusive. The cuff link points to him as the intruder in Mr. Harding's room. We find that his typewriter was used for typing the threatening note that was left there. And he is in financial straits, according to Mr. Harding. It's simple, Bruce."

"Perhaps," murmured Kirby, "it is too simple. Plainly from the evidence, Castian is the culprit. But it is all circumstantial evidence. I don't believe he'd be such a fool as to use his own machine for such notes and then leave it here for any one to see—without even locking it in its case!"

"Don't try to be clever," Jane said. "He may have done all this purposely, throwing such an amount of suspicion against himself as to make us believe just what you are thinking—that he was framed."

"HELLO," interrupted a new voice coldly. "May I ask what you are doing in my room?"

Startled they all wheeled. Robert Castian stood framed in the doorway, smoking a cigarette.

"It is only courteous," he said cuttingly to Harding, "even for a host to ask a guest's permission to explore his room."

"Why—why—" Harding stammered.

"Come down off that," said Kirby mildly. "We're not searching your room, Castian. We were examining your typewriter."

"Oh, I see." Castian came into the room. "Well, I suppose I might have expected this sort of thing of you, Kirby. You never can tell what ill-bred people will do."

Kirby chuckled. "And it's astonishing, too, Castian, that such a well-bred fellow as you should be so untidy in his dress. Your right cuff, for instance, is missing a link."

Castian started, and shot both of his cuffs. It was true. His right one was open—without a link.

He flushed. "I—I must have lost it," he faltered.

"Oh no," mocked Kirby. "It was taken from you."

"Taken from me?"

"Quite. By the chap you dealt such a nasty blow. He chanced to grasp it from your shirt as he fell after you hit him." Kirby pointed to the patch of gauze on his forehead. "I am that chap, you see."

"HE'S stalling, Bruce," said Jane calmly.

She moved toward Castian, who unconsciously stepped back.

"Look here!" he cried. "I don't know what you're talking about!" His eyes darted from face to face. "I've done nothing!"

"You deny striking me? Being in Harding's room?" said Kirby.

"Yes!"

"Don't be an ass, Castian! We have got the goods on you. You put that letter in the room to intimidate—"

"Letter?" Castian broke in wildly. "I know nothing about a letter! I went to Emery's room after the—"

He stopped, a look of terror sweeping his face.

"You went after the ruby?" Kirby asked. "Is that what you were going to say?"

"You were there then!" cried Harding. "I had still hoped we were wrong!"

"You're under arrest," said Jane evenly, approaching Castian. "And don't pull any tricks."

"Don't put your hands on me, any one of you!" Castian shrilled. "You have nothing on me! You can't arrest me!"

"I have arrested you," remarked Jane. "And don't try to get out that door, Mr. Castian."

HER hand dove into her handbag and came out gripping a small revolver, which she leveled at him.

"So you still carry that .22 caliber popgun?" Kirby smiled.

"Popgun it may be. But it will stop a man."

"I don't doubt it," Kirby said good-naturedly. "But there's no sense in frightening your catch to death. He'll faint if you don't turn that muzzle away from him."

Provoked as she was by Kirby's bantering tone, Jane had to admit that Castian was a changed man. All the fight had gone out of him and as he cowered out of line of the ominous little black mouth of the revolver, he looked pitiful.

Jane's brow wrinkled. She put the gun back in her bag and drew a deep breath.

"Sit down, Mr. Castian," she said.

Castian pallid, groped for a chair and slid into it, his dark eyes ranging swiftly over them but never focusing for more than a second on any one of them.

"And now," advised Kirby, "explain yourself before Miss Hall is prompted to display her weapon again. Why did you go to Emery's room?"

DAUGHTERS OF JOB TO HAVE PROGRAM MEET

Plans for a visit from the San Francisco Bethel on May 15 were discussed when the Richmond Bethel of Job's Daughters met at Masonic hall yesterday afternoon.

A program and banquet are being planned for the San Francisco visitors.

Mothers night will be held by the lodge, in conjunction with the De Molay Chapter on Saturday night. Irene Bignall heads the committee in charge.

Margaret Wolleson presided yesterday. Tea was served by Jean Hanson and committee.

Sermon Subject At Science Church

In all Christian Science Churches branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-sermon will be read today, Sunday, May 3, on the subject "Everlasting Punishment."

The Golden Text will be: "There is no peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked" (Isaiah 48:22). Bible selections will include the following passage from Rev. 12:7, 9: "And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon: and the dragon fought and his angels. . . And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him."

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "The great red dragon symbolizes a lie,—the belief that substance, life and intelligence can be material. This dragon stands for the sum total of human error. . . The Revelator lifts the veil from this embodiment of all evil and beholds its awful character; but he also sees the nothingness of evil and the allness of God" (p. 563).

The Doctor Considers the Effect of Noise on Humans

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

HOW many of us have longed for a "quiet zone" to be set up around our place of living? Again, how many of us have found ourselves suddenly in a quiet, empty house where we go around feeling as if the bottom had fallen out of our stomachs? No doubt the effect of noise upon the human nervous system is something to be reckoned with. Effort has been made by word masters to trace the name of the sound to such word roots as are used in "nausea" or "obnoxious."

DR. CHRISMAN

Noise has been the topic of various lines of research, especially in offices where many tests have been made to find in just what degree sound-proof walls could guarantee a larger work sheet or just how much the noise from either fellow workers or from the street outside clawed up the output.

Since all sound is a matter of vibration, it is reasonable to admit that continuously repeated or exaggerated sound that we call noise would have an effect on the human nerves that might finally be harmful. On the other hand, when we find ourselves in the midst of quiet, when we are accustomed to noise, the feeling of being let down is only the normal sensation of all nerve centers when an accustomed excitation has been withdrawn.

Considerable time and effort have been expended in trying to frame and introduce ordinances into our city codes that will curb noise producing activities and reduce the otherwise normal sounds of urban activity.

A Noise Studio

Recently, Dr. L. Grant Hector, of the University of Buffalo, has released some very interesting findings that have been made in what he calls his "noise studio." Dr. Hector explains, "you don't just hear a noise. It affects your whole sensory apparatus. The physiological effect of a noise depends on its volume and the frequency of the air virbrations. It sets up its pitch."

A matter for discussion is Dr. Hector's further statement, "Loud noises of high pitch result in irritability and nervousness, whereas low notes upset the digestive processes and have a definite physical effect." In the studio of Dr. Hector's experiments, a sort of box is used in which vibrating filaments are used to analyze noises. In other words, noises are "broken down," as chemical compounds are broken down, into their component parts. In the realm of sound, these parts are known as frequencies since that factor determines the pitch. The arrangement of this mechanism is such that the components of any given noise may be immediately seen, not just heard. After a microphone of a certain type has picked up the noise, it is amplified in the usual manner by a loud speaker, then "fed" into the analyzer, which separates the different pitches.

Immediately these different tones are indicated on an illuminated dial. Dr. Hector has contrived a gadget, featuring the cathode ray, which literally throws on a screen a picture of the human voice by using different colorings to indicate the electrical vibrations of the different tones.

What a surprise it might be to some of us to "see ourselves as others see us" in that fashion. Practical use has already been made of Dr. Hector's conceptions in the manufacture of mufflers for automobiles and airplanes. The terrific deep roar of the airplane engine, according to this scientist, contributes to the distress of air sickness.

This recent development claims to have decreased the roar of the airplane engine to a comparatively small per cent of its original volume.

Mrs. F. D. S. of Texas presents a perfect picture of gall stone colic. An agonizing pain radiating from the pit of the stomach downward seems to paralyze the bowels. When the attack passes she is able to resume her work without hindrance. An X-Ray should show the stones. If present, they can only be removed by surgery but the operation need not be difficult.

An Actor Who Started Out to Be Lawyer

By TALBOT LAKE

IN THE British play, "Libel," which has been such a success in the United States, is an interesting veteran actor who started out to be a lawyer. Ernest Lawford is known to thousands of playgoers in America. His career has been most interesting.

Before he became a professional trouper, Mr. Lawford was articled to a London law firm, Geraud & Shoppee, at 14 Furnival's Lane, directly across from a Victorian house where Charles Dickens wrote the larger part of the Boz papers.

Young Lawford's position was that of junior assistant to one of the partners (an old gaffer who could recall serving in the British navy in the War of 1812).

Being a young man of the world, already with noticeable leanings toward the stage, he would arrive at the office in a hansom cab three-quarters of an hour later than his chief, and have a fresh boutonniere sent in twice a day.

Almost before he knew it he had left Furnival's Inn and was appearing regularly at Drury Lane in a drama called "The Derby Winner."

His next engagement was what he describes as "a magnificent season" with Sir George Alexander in "Rupert of Hentzau."

Mr. Lawford recalls that engagement with tenderness. "Under Sir George Alexander's regime the St. James was the best run theater in the world, so superbly managed that I used to call it 'The Cathedral.' The stage manager and his assistant would as soon have thought of setting fire to the building as not to have appeared after six o'clock in a top hat and tails.

Miss Hunt Gives Tips For Travel

By JACQUELINE HUNT

THE joyous traveller is the one who knows how to meet every situation brightly and efficiently. She can clean up and renew her make-up in a car while motoring or emerge from her hotel room, fifteen minutes after her arrival looking as refreshed as though she had taken a shower and beauty nap.

How can she do it? The first of our answers have appeared, but here are additional tips to those of you who hope to take a cruise, a motor trip or journey by train.

To clean up in a car while travelling, use a liquid cleanser. There is one that comes in a small flask that fits easily into your bag. Have several little squares of cotton and cleansing tissues. Go over the skin with a pad of cotton soaked in the cleanser, until the last pad of cotton shows no sign of grime. Then apply fresh lipstick and powder. Pour a little hand lotion into the palm of one hand, then smooth it over your hands and wrists as though you were washing. Wipe off this first application with tissues, apply more of the lotion and massage into your skin.

MISS HUNT

Apply a dab of perfume from the tiny flacon you carry in your hand bag and you will be glamorous as well as neat and fresh looking when you arrive at your destination.

When you arrive at your hotel tired and hungry, take time to cleanse your skin and apply fresh make-up. Here you may use the liquid cleanser if you wish, although you will feel more refreshed if you scrub your hands and face thoroughly with tepid water and your favorite toilet soap (carried along, of course).

Apply a little cream, then remove and pat with skin tonic or cold water. Apply your make-up, run your nail white pencil under your nail tips and use hand lotion. Comb your hair. Fresh gloves, a clean hankie and fresh blouse will make you feel rested and confident and help your enjoy your dinner.

Of course a bath, if it is only a sponge bath from the wash basin, will refresh and relax you sufficiently to insure a good night's sleep. Cleanse your skin thoroughly at night, leaving on just the tiniest speck of cream if your skin is wind burned or irritated from the heat and dust.

If your trip is to be made by boat, you will have to take additional precautions against sunburn. Use a waterproof rouge and lipstick, a powder lotion made with an oil base or a suntan oil before you powder. Smooth a pomade or camphor over your lips after using the color.

Hair is one of the major problems of the girl who travels. Have a new permanent before you set out if your trip is to be an extended one. If it is only a brief trip, have your hair shampooed and the wave set before you set out.

Moisten your hair slightly each night or spray with a light lotion, push the waves into place and slip a cap on when you go to bed. Run a comb through your locks when you wake up in the morning.

Be sure to carry along several of the little curlers for keeping the stragglers around your neckline in place.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I have a round face that is nicely proportioned, still I would like to make it appear just a little more slender. Can you tell me the best way to apply my rouge and how I should arrange my hair? —G. D."

Since your features are nicely proportioned you can wear your hair either off the forehead and behind the ears or off the forehead and slightly forward on your cheeks. Make your eyebrows more interesting by shaping them just enough to accentuate the natural arch, and use eye shadow to enlarge your eyes.

Apply your rouge in a roughly triangular area—that is, longer than it is broad. Start on the cheekbone just under the center of the eye, taking the color out and slightly up to the temple and down to a point just above the center of your lower jaw.

Blend the color subtly so there are no harsh edges.

Those of you who would like to have glossy, luxurious hair might try the eggnog shampoo. The shampoo starts with a thorough brushing and a liberal sudsing. The soap is then rinsed away and an eggnog mixture of two or three beaten eggs and rum is put on the hair and worked well into the scalp with a small brush. The scalp is massaged thoroughly then the hair rinsed several times to remove every trace of the egg. Try this shampoo when you are in a self-coddling mood. You will not be disappointed.

It Is Time for Print Dresses

Canned Salmon Will Make Many Appetizing Meals

By JUDITH WILSON

AMERICA'S best loved fish comes in a can! Of course we use lots of fresh salmon, too, rich in vitamin D and in calcium, phosphorus and iodine that are so essential to health.

Here are a few recipes for canned salmon:

Salmon Loaf

Drain 2 cups salmon, remove the skin and bones and flake coarsely. Make a white sauce from 1 tablespoon each butter and flour blended and 1 cup milk. Stir until the sauce is smooth and thickened and pour slowly over two well-beaten eggs, stirring constantly. Combine with the salmon. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated onion, ¼ teaspoon salt, a few grains pepper and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Fold in 2 cups soft bread crumbs.

DINNERS

Appetizer
Baked Salmon Loaf with Stuffed Baked Cucumbers
One-Step Creamed Potatoes
Head Lettuce-Russian Dressing
Maple Bavarian Cream

Beef Bouillon
Curried Salmon with Rice
Timbales
Buttered Green Peas
Vegetable Salad in Tomato Jelly Rings
Prune Custard Whipped Cream

Grease a small loaf pan and arrange strips of pimiento and sliced olives on the bottom and sides. Put in half of the salmon mixture and arrange hard-cooked eggs, end to end, lengthwise of the loaf. Cover with the remaining salmon mixture. Bake in a moderate oven about 45 minutes.

Bake stuffed cucumber halves at the same time. For the latter, cut short but plumpish cucumbers in halves lengthwise. Peel and scoop out the centers. Dice the latter and season well with salt, pepper and melted butter and blend with soft bread crumbs. Stuff the hollowed out cucumber boats and arrange on a greased baking dish. Add a little boiling water or meat stock and bake covered until tender. Then uncover and allow to brown lightly.

Salmon-Noodle Casserole

Make a white sauce from 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper and 2 cups milk. Drop 2 cups uncooked noodles into boiling salted water and cook until tender. Drain. Put a layer of noodles in a buttered casserole, then cover with a layer of flaked red salmon, finely chopped pimiento, and drained canned peas. Alternate layers of noodles, salmon and peas until the ingredients are used. You will need 1 tall can salmon, 1½ cups cooked or canned peas, ¼ cup chopped pimiento and enough dry bread crumbs for a topping. Pour the white sauce over the other ingredients, sprinkle with crumbs and dot liberally with butter. Bake in a moderate oven 1 hour. Garnish with parsley.

Salmon Bisque

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan. Add 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento and simmer for 2 or three minutes. Add 1½ tablespoons flour and blend well. Add 4 cups milk, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, a dash paprika and ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Remove the skin and bones from an 8-ounce can of salmon, mash and add to the milk mixture as soon as latter has thickened. Simmer for 5 minutes and serve. This makes enough for 6. Serve with round crackers that have been spread with butter, sprinkled with paprika and toasted.

Scandinavian Salmon

Cut 2 slices of rye bread lengthwise of the loaf. Spread with softened butter, then flaked canned salmon. Top with hot scrambled eggs and serve piping hot.

Curried Salmon

Pack cooked rice into buttered timbale cases or custard cups set in a pan of hot water. Make a curry sauce by melting 3 tablespoons butter and blending in 3 tablespoons flour and 2 teaspoons curry powder. Add 1 cup milk and the liquid drained from 1 can salmon. Stir until sauce is thick and hot. Season and add the salmon, broken into large pieces. Serve on a hot platter surrounded by the rice molds and garnish with hard-cooked egg slices and parsley.

Frankfurter Pinwheels

Cream ½ pound butter until very soft and blend in ½ cup finely minced parsley, 1 teaspoon grated onion, a dash salt and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Remove the skin from 6 cooked frankfurters. Cut the crusts from 1 loaf fresh bread, then cut into lengthwise slices. Spread each slice with the creamed butter mixture. Place a frankfurter along one of the short sides and carefully roll, leaving the frankfurter in the center. Wrap and roll tightly in waxed paper and chill for at least 1 hour. At serving time, slice the rolls crosswise into ¼ inch slices. This makes about 4 dozen small sandwiches.

Speaking of Styles

Large Hat Is Correct In Summer

By IRENE VAIL

New York—Summer millinery is at hand, and with it the advent of the large hat, with a brim varying from four to six inches.

Trimmings are on the up and up. Quite in line with the revival of gay nineties fashions are the stiff, tall bows which are being used both here and abroad. Patou and Legroux Soeurs are special sponsors of them, posed at side or front, and wired to sustain their regimental stance. They are posed on various silhouettes, wide and medium brims or turbans with equal success.

It seems obvious that bows will be largely instrumental in bringing back the use of wider ribbons, and already velvet and imported taffeta ribbons in three or more color combinations in the one weave provide delightful effects. Sometimes, just two ends and loops are used.

We can say confidently that millinery creators have no idea of abandoning color, and they are treating it in new fashion, so that these styles provide a fresh merchandising angle.

Wide brims of shantung, herringbone, okinawa, toyo, among the straws, or felt if you choose, reveal brims that introduce two or three vibrant contrasts in ribbon facings which, in turn, are banded round the crown. Bluebonnet blue, fuchsia, American Beauty provide one striking scheme. Prints or cravat silks replace ribbons in other models, covering the entire under brim and draped around the crown.

A step in the right direction is the designing of shoes fitting, in every sense of the word, for the woman who is her own chauffeur. Paris has decided that spiked heels are what is needed, and so new shoe collections have some very interesting models designed for driving.

As for the swimmer, and those who go down to the sea to be seen, the haute couture and our designers have done well by her.

Among the suitable fabrics they have gathered into their net for her adornment is sail cloth, which seems fair enough. Novelty cottons lead again, but don't forget challis, and don't forget linen, when it comes to planning your beach ensembles or any of your play suits for the matter of that.

Capes are as important on the beach as they are everywhere else. Unless you make a fetish of black and white, you will riot in every shade in the rainbow, and then some.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "I am planning to take a train trip. As I have never ridden in a sleeping car, please explain how one manages with dressing and undressing?—Irene."

ANSWER: Passengers traveling in sleeping cars are expected to undress in their berth. For the sake of convenience, therefore, carry an extra small bag, completely fitted with overnight necessities. When trains are not crowded one may dress or undress in the washrooms. But to do so when others are waiting is inconsiderate.

QUESTION: "When creamed vegetable or creamed chicken is served in a patty shell, is the patty shell supposed to be eaten? —Eileen."

ANSWER: It is purely a matter of taste whether patty shells are eaten. A thin, crisp shell may be eaten with the fork alone. If the fork is held prongs down, it will break through the crust easily.

The thicker patty shell sometimes used for creamed chicken may require the use of both knife and fork.

QUESTION: "I am planning a bridge party for evening and would like to serve supper. Please tell me which is correct, to serve the guests before playing or after? —Mrs. I. R."

ANSWER: You may serve either way. If you decide to serve before the playing starts, the bridge tables will be set when the guests arrive. Two courses are sufficient. Serve either a salad or a hot dish and dessert and a beverage.

Supper served after playing means a little more excitement, as while the guests are waiting pretty cloths will have to be thrown over the tables, the tables set, the guests seated and served. Serving supper first, on the other hand, means uninterrupted play after the dishes are cleared away.

QUESTION: "I have heard that ushers at a wedding should be unmarried. Does this also apply to the best man? Please let me hear from you soon.—H. N."

ANSWER: It is customary to have unmarried ushers, just as it is customary to have unmarried bridesmaids. However, if there are not enough unmarried young men to act as ushers in one's circle, one may draw from the ranks of the married.

There is only one rule that applies to the choce of best man—that he be the bridegroom's best friend.

MODERN WOMEN

Men Should Be Ready to Give as Well as to Take

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

WOMEN are so often accused of wanting to eat their cake and have it too that it is positively refreshing to hear that men are not above wanting to do the same thing. They want their women independent, but helpless without them, if you get what I mean. They are loud in their declarations against the clinging-vine sort, yet quick on the trigger to rush to her rescue. So what? It's just a bit bewildering. The nice point for a woman to ascertain is just when to stop getting along under her own steam and when to permit herself to be rescued. Not because she needs rescuing, mind you, but because it's good for the man's ego.

MRS. MARTIN

The modern male insists on intelligence in his wife. He is not lastingly interested in the beautiful but dumb variety. When a girl isn't what you might call a ravishing beauty he consoles himself with the thought that every eye makes its own conception of beauty.

Yes, she must have intelligence, this bride of 1936. But the fact remains that she must be intelligent enough not to be too intelligent, if you follow me. She must not, under any consideration, be more intelligent than her mate. Mr. Ego couldn't survive any such situation as that. The woman who hasn't intelligence enough to know this, even though she may not understand it, isn't intelligent at all.

Men Expect Much

Men do expect a great deal of women. And because they do, they get it. It has always been one of my theories that if women expected more of men, and were not so quick to forgive and forget, that men would be better citizens.

It could hardly fail to be a bit demoralizing to know that one could sally forth and commit all the sins on the social calendar and be assured of forgiveness. And with men that's usually the case. Once in a while a male who has strutted about in the lordly manner of males gets the surprise of his life when, his strutting over, he has a yen for home and finds the door bolted against him.

I think that men do, and always have, taken too much for granted. They assume that all will be forgiven, after tears and incriminations—but forgiven nevertheless.

Women have been differently reared. We've been taught from the cradle that if we were not good little girls we could never expect men to forgive us. I fancy that credo has kept many a nice girl nice. And I never could quite see why the formula should not work with men. Wouldn't it be worth trying?

A single man who has no particular girl in mind but is merely theorizing on marriage and the sort of wife he thinks he wants, usually hitches his wagon to a star. He demands beauty and brains, all the virtues plus a capacity for efficient domestic performances, social attainments and extraordinary financial ability.

The Fair Exchange

It never seems to cause such a man a qualm that he has little to offer in exchange for all these virtues, blessings and benefits. One assumes that the amazing fact that he is willing to wed a girl gives him the privilege of walking off with the prize.

It might have been so once, but the modern girl is keen enough to know what she has by way of assets and to expect to get as good as she gives. And that's as it should be.

Women are more exacting than they were, especially economically independent women who, rightly enough, take it for granted that they can afford to be somewhat choosey.

It is also one of my pet theories that such men as are chosen by the financially independent women have an extra reason for being pleased with themselves. They can hardly fail to consider themselves desirable in themselves. Unless curiously lacking in imagination some men must have a faint suspicion that they were chosen for less personal or flattering reasons.

There is solace in the thought that even such men and women who demand perfection usually are only too glad to compromise.

Dieting Has Dangers For Teen-Age

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD Kathleen is of the large, athletic type. But, while she looks the part, she is far from athletic. Indeed, she does not seem to have the energy for activity of any sort. She generally is too tired to help her mother. But, being an understanding woman, her mother can see for herself that this is so, and does not urge her to. Her friends' enthusiasms for bicycling, dancing, hiking do not excite Kathleen unduly.

MRS. GOWARD

Like many young girls, Kathleen's trouble is that she does not eat enough to keep body and soul together. Having been hit by the dieting craze, she broods over every morsel of food she takes. She would rather go hungry than eat a potato or a slice of bread, although she does have a single piece of toast along with orange juice for breakfast. Butter, she scorns.

And she deprives herself of many wholesome dishes that she really likes and would benefit by eating. In short, Kathleen starves herself at a time of growing when it is particularly important that she be well-nourished. No wonder she always feels tired.

A self-imposed diet is dangerous for teen-age girls. It may impair their health permanently. Don't waste time, therefore, in teasing or opposing the child. Rather take her to a physician and let him prescribe a diet. If he does not think one necessary, a frank talk with the girl should help put her on the right track. What the doctor says will carry weight. You could tell her the same thing, but it would only be nagging to her.

Adolescence is a self-conscious age. Many a girl, unhappy because of large hips, stout legs or broad shoulders, considers herself too large or "fat" to be attractive and thinks that dieting will help. Set her right.

Renovating the Ties

A man's ties can be freshened and ironed at home, although in most cities there are cleaners who make a specialty of their tie service. The tendency to wear a tie too long, after it has acquired a smudge from chin perspiration, should be watched by the wife.

The best way is to get daddy some new ones and quietly remove the offending ones to be cleaned and reshaped. If the material is good a silk tie will stand two or three renovations.

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver disgorge its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills.

What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic like Plantlax to thoroughly cleanse the digestive system of all foul secretions and at the same time restore the torpid, lazy liver to proper working order. When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, coated tongue, sallow skin, sour stomach, bilious attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble.

Plantlax is made from the juices of harmless medicinal plants — Nature's own remedies—that act in a mild, easy way without weakening or irritating the organs. Try it tonight. Large bottle $1 at any good drug store.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

GO TO THE POLLS TUESDAY AND CAST YOUR VOTE TO REJECT THE SPECIAL PRIVILEGE CHARTER

El Cerrito in the past twenty years has grown from a cross roads village to a thriving city of over 6,000. It is attractive to homeseekers, has exceptional transportation facilities to reach centers of population, has a low tax rate, and now a Freeholders Charter is presented to you to vote on next Tuesday, that was conceived in darkness and reeks with special privilege from beginning to end. It is tossed at you and you are asked to swallow it, in its entirety.

RETAIN YOUR PRESENT CHARTER

What is known as the County line town has made marked progress since it was incorporated, and its people have prospered under the present form of government — a State Charter.

The present charter you are working under is a commission form, and has proved itself to be one of the best and most workable there is.

Residents and taxpayers have been obtaining the very best results under it. One of the most important of these is the undisputed fact that El Cerrito is enjoying one of the lowest municipal tax rates in the State of California.

CHARTER ESTABLISHES A DICTATORSHIP

Under the proposed new charter that you are asked to vote for, you elect a council of seven members, but at the same time take away from them all power and control over the business affairs of the city. All this power is placed in the hands of a City Manager. He would be a virtual dictator, and the members of the council mere Dummies.

The proposed City Manager would very likely be imported and receive a high salary, under a contract which would practically prevent his dismissal, no matter how unsatisfactory his service might be. El Cerrito is not ready for any high priced City Manager.

The proposed New Charter is practically the product of crack-pot professors, full of isms and theories, that sound nice on paper, but are never workable.

To illustrate: All officers are appointive, and their salaries are fixed by the council, with the exception of one—the police judge, and his office is made elective, a term fixed at four years, salary $100 a month, and this stipend cannot be reduced during his term. Again he must be a licensed attorney and must have resided in the city for three years. There is only one attorney who could qualify for this position. Doesn't this strike you as peculiar? Why surround one official with such safeguards, unless you include all officials in the list.

PROTECT YOUR SCHOOL SYSTEM

A provision in the charter provides that El Cerrito may contract with other school districts for the education of the children, but it does not mention the fact that other districts may refuse to enter into such contracts.

If the charter is adopted the schools of El Cerrito will automatically be cut off from the Richmond school district, is the unqualified assertion made by those well versed in school law.

As a matter of fact, most of the taxes for the support of El Cerrito schools, is paid by Richmond, with the result our children are enjoying the facilities of the best schools in the state.

If El Cerrito is cut-off from the present school district it would be unable to maintain the three schools that its children now enjoy, without a tax burden that would be impossible to bear. The danger to our schools should compel every person to vote against the charter.

NOTHING BUT PLATITUDES OFFERED

There is not one provision in the new charter that provides for anything better than you are now enjoying under your present form of government.

There are some things that the charter will bring to you for a certainty:

FIRST—Your taxes will be increased.

SECOND—Your schools will be crippled.

THIRD—You will be saddled with employees that you cannot get rid of except by dismissal by the city manager.

FOURTH—You will have no councilmen, for without any power, they will be mere puppets.

FIFTH—High Taxes will prevent people from locating in our midst.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO TAKE A CHANCE

El Cerrito has a very promising future. It has beautiful homesites, it is a city of contented and happy people. With the completion of the trans-bay bridge, thousands will come to this side of the bay to make their homes.

Don't do anything that will place a blight on the future growth of the city. Don't adopt a charter, in which the people will have no voice in the administration of its affairs. The farther government is removed from the people, the worse you are off.

BE SURE AND VOTE NEXT TUESDAY

It is the duty of every citizen to vote at the coming election. Go to the polls and vote to protect yourself against high taxes; vote for the welfare of your children; vote for the maintenance of your present school system; vote for a continuation of Representative Government, by
